2012 Mathematics and Statistics Graduates

Ashley Birch, aebirch@loyola.edu: Attending Loyola for MAT (masters in arts of teaching) for secondary education (graduating May 2013).

Erin Cawley, eecawley@loyola.edu: Undecided as of right now, looking for a full time job in the Baltimore area.

Stephanie Clerkin, srclerkin@loyola.edu: Working as a software engineer at Raytheon and part-time grad school @ Johns Hopkins for MS in computer science.

Thomas Devane, tjdevane@loyola.edu: No response.

Steven Dragone, sjdragone@gmail.com: Will be at Loyola for the 5-year MAT program earning his masters in secondary education.

Jennifer Ellis, jlellis@loyola.edu: Attending Villanova in the applied statistics program; working as a research assistant.

Timothy Faver, tfaver@gmail.com: Will attend Drexel University for Ph.D. in mathematics in order to teach and do research at university level . . . “remember me if positions open at Loyola.”

Alyson Fox, fox.alyson@gmail.com: Will attend grad school at University of Colorado, Boulder for a Ph.D. in applied mathematics.

Christine Hryzak, chryzak@loyola.edu: Full-time geometry teacher at Christo Rey Jesuit High School in Baltimore. Part-time masters at Loyola University Maryland beginning Spring 2013.

Alyssa Lamdin, amlamdin@loyola.edu: Working in air and missile defense department at Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Lab. Also, part-time master’s program at Johns Hopkins for computer science.

Jessica Lavery, jalavery@loyola.edu: Attending UNC Chapel Hill for MS – Biostatistics.

Erika Patriarco, elpatriarco@loyola.edu: No response.

Danielle Peters, dmpeters@loyola.edu: Next year I will be attending Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine to get my Masters in Biomedical Science. This summer I am applying to osteopathic medical schools for the entering class of Fall 2013, so hopefully I will get into a medical school and be able to graduate from PCOM’s program after one year with a certificate in the biomedical sciences and head directly to med school.

William Pinti, wppinti@loyola.edu: No response.

Maura Powers, mcpowers@loyola.edu: Working at CIGNA Health Insurance in Wilmington, DE as an actuary.

Robert Quigley, rjquigley@loyola.edu: No clue, yet.

David Rupp, djrupp@loyola.edu: Attempting to obtain a teaching job on Long Island.

Jordan Schnipke, jgschnipke@gmail.com: Hopefully, graduate school.